

level." The test showed Roberts' blood-alcohol level at .11%, which is higher than the .08% legal limit for intoxication in Oklahoma.

A few hours after being booked into a Tulsa jail, Roberts posted $1,100 bond and was released.

In 2007, Roberts was forced from his position as president of the university founded by his father as the institution experienced ongoing and mounting fiscal deficits along with charges of financial malfeasance against Roberts. Roberts was later voted "president emeritus," a title without board voting privileges.

Roberts' father, Oral, died Dec. 15, 2009, at age 91.

MORE REALITY TV FOR HAGGARD

Ted Haggard just seems to have an insatiable appetite to be in the public eye. In January, the disgraced and fallen pastor was featured on ABC's premiere episode of Celebrity Wife Swap. But according to news reports of the reality program, the real star was Haggard's wife, Gayle. "She clearly kept things together through turmoil that would tear most families apart. Rarely do reality TV shows humanize people, but 'Celebrity Wife Swap' certainly does that for the Haggard family," according to an article in The Gazette, a newspaper in Haggard's hometown of Colorado Springs.

The program is another instance of the sins and failings of Haggard being paraded before the public. "Viewers are treated to a husband who focuses a little too much on his job, kids who would like to spend more one-on-one time with their father, and a strong wife who is the foundation of a clan," The Gazette reported.

And, in actuality, it's not really a "wife swap." Also appearing on the broadcast were actor Gary Busey and his fiancée, Steffanie Sampson.

According to the online publication, The Christian Post, "The two couples make an interesting religious combination. The Haggards are evangelical Christians who currently lead Saint James Church and the Buseys follow New Age philosophies, including reincarnation. Busey and Sampson believe they are married in spirit and are currently in their 32nd lifetime together."

The Post also cited Haggard as saying that he thought the program would be "insightful for judgmental Christians."

In 2006, Haggard forfeited his roles as pastor of the New Life Church and leader of the National Association of Evangelicals when details of his relationship with a male prostitute and illegal drug use were revealed. Leaving Colorado in humiliation, he returned to the state less than two years later. In 2009 he appeared on another reality program, Divorce Court, along with other broadcasts including Larry King Live. Then, in 2010, he returned to the pastorate, launching Saint James Church in Colorado Springs.
